Is there an American, young or old, not interested in the History of the first Rise and Progress of his native Country, and from so celebrated a pen as that of Doctor Robertson?

Just Published,

AND TO BE SOLD BY

JAMES HUMPHREYS,

No. 59, south Third street, opposite the Bank of the United States,

(Price one dollar neatly bound and lettered, in boards, six shillings)

Dr. Robertson's History of

(BRITISH)

AMERICA,

Containing

The history of Virginia to the year 1685, and the history of New-England to the year 1652, being what the Doctor had completed previous to his death. It has lately been given to the public with a preface by his son at Edinburgh, has already passed through three or four editions, and has been translated and published in French at Paris.

Mr. Robertson in his preface observes,

"During the course of tedious illness, which he early foretaw would have a fatal termination, Dr. Robertson at different times destroyed many of his papers: But after his death, I found that part of the History of (British) America which he had wrote many years before, and which is now offered to the public. It is written with his own hand as all his works were; it is as carefully corrected as any part of his manuscripts which I have ever seen; and he had thought it worthy of being preserved, as it escaped the flames to which so many other papers had been committed. I read it with the utmost attention; but, before I came to any resolution about the publication, I put the MSS. into the hands of some of those friends whom my father used to consult on such occasions, as it would have been rashness and presumption in me, to have trusted to my own partial decision. It was perused by some other persons also, in whose taste and judgment I have the greatest confidence: by all of them I was encouraged to offer it to the public, as curious and interesting in itself, and not inferior to any of my father's other works."

The Editor of the Paris Edition apostrophizes the above work in the following manner.

"Every thing ensures success to this volume the talents and reputation of the author, and the impression still recent in the minds of all who have read the excellent work of which this is the completion—all conspire to give it an extensive spread. The history of America was the master-piece of one of the two ablest, or rather one of the two only modern historians. He has created this part of history, distinguished this chaos of the New World, distinguished with the hand of a master the part of genius, fortune, courage and crime, and conquered as it were, America, for literary, commercial, and political Europe.

"To ensure this last volume circulation, it is necessary only to name its author, and to remark, it possesses all that acuteness of observation, that perspicuity of exposition, the art of referring effects to causes, and of mingling with the account of events, the wholesomest and most approved priciples of morals and politics, for which this writer was so eminently conspicuous—In short, that it exhibits the talents of Robertson."

TO THE Promoters of Literature.
THE managers of the Beula Seminary, impelled by motives of pure morality, having reſolved to diſpoſe of the following property by way of LOTTERY, in order to aſſiſt them in erecting a convenient building for the accommodation of one hundred ſtudents, and the neceſſary profeſſors in the different departments of ſcience—do offer for ſale three hundred and fifty lots in BEULA, each fifty-eight feet by one hundred and twenty-five, at twenty dollars per ticket, each ticket entitled to a lot to be determined by ballot; ten dollars to be paid on receipt of the ticket, and the remaining ten on the delivery of the deed. The ballot to take place before impartial men, as ſoon as the whole number of tickets are ſold.
The managers, anticipating the difficulty of obtaining caſh for the whole, have reſolved to receive an equivalent, for ſome of the lots, in ſelect books; philoſophical apparatus, or in produce and materials for building, delivered on the ſpot.
It may be obſerved, that the value of prizes in this lottery will be more than double the amount of all the tickets; for 350 lots, would at their average eſtimation, produce at leaſt 15,750 dollars; whilſt, according to the preſent propoſals, the ſum obtained for them will be only 7,000 dollars.
Tickets may be had during this winter, of Morgan J. Rhees, preſident of the board of managers, no. 177, ſouth Second-ſtreet, Philadelphia; who will receive propoſals and plans for the erection of the building. It is intended to be of brick or ſtone; its ſituation on the ſummit of a gradual riſing eminence, commanding an extenſive proſpect of the ſurrounding country; an obſervatory to be on its top.
Land and out lots in the vicinity of the Town may be had on moderate terms by applying as above. Mechanics and laborers, of good morals will meet with encouragement.

POPULAR RISING IN BELGIUM.
The following is an extract of a letter from Bruſſels, dated October 22.
"The political ſituation of ci-devant Belgium becomes every day more alarming, on account of the execution of the law for raiſing, by conſcription, two hundred thouſand men. A very lively agitation now manifeſts itſelf in all Campine, as far as Louvain, where libels are circulated, ending with theſe words, "Long live the emperor and his allies," and exhorting the people to revolt. Authorities are neither bold enough or willing to proclaim the law, or put it in execution. A great number of them have reſigned, to avoid the fate of the agents of the Canton, ſome of whom had been killed and others wounded. Of the National Guards, too, ſeveral have loſt their lives.
"Whilſt things are in this ſtate here, they have aſſumed a much more ſerious complexion in another part of our departments: an inſurrection has broken out with great violence in the county of Waas, and has extended itſelf as far as Antwerp. The toſin has been ſounded for three days ſucceſſively, in the numerous villages ſcattered over that fertile country, and near 40000 men have aſſembled in arms, with ſome pieces of artillery, and commanded, they ſay, by experienced chiefs. Several ſharp encounters have taken place between them and the French troops from the neighboring garriſons, the event of which is not yet ſatisfactorily known. The following is the account given by general Beguinot to the central admini ration of our department, in a dſpatch yeſterday publiſhed at the Decadary Temple: "I haſten to announce to you the entire defeat of the rebels in the department of the Scheldt. Their number, though very conſiderable could not withſtand the republicans who marched againſt them, although not more than one tenth. In the different encounters they had about 300 killed; and ſearch is now making for thoſe who eſcaped.
This inſurrection, for which the conſcription has been the pretext, is part of a very widely extended plot. For ſome time inflammatory placards have been diſſeminated every where. The attack of an important poſt on the Scheldt, is a proof of its exiſtence. It has been aſcertained, that the Engliſh thought to profit by theſe revolts on the coaſts, to effect a deſcent, but all attempts have proved abortive, and will be always guarded againſt. We have had ſome brave defenders wounded, but none killed." We do not yet know the important poſt on the Scheldt alluded to; but it ſeems the fugitives have thrown themſelves into the woods and that a great many manufacturers from Antwerp are gone to increaſe their number. We have remarked alſo, of late, that ſeveral light Engliſh veſſels, detached from the diviſion cruiſing at the entrance of the Scheldt have entered that river, which may have ſupplied the inſurgents with arms. We expect here a detachment of troops from the banks of the Rhine."
Gen. Beguinot iſſued at Mecklin the following proclamation: "Citizens, the ſacred tree of liberty has been cut down, the tri-colored ſtandard has been torn, the priſons have been opened, the aſylum of the law has been violated, and the public acts and regiſters have been burned; Republicans have been murdered, and the dreadful ſcenes have been acted under your eyes. Yet they who have thus trampled under foot the laws of the French Republic, are inhabitants of Belguim. Whatever may be their ill judged project, and whoever may be their artful agents, I hereby declare the city of Malines in a ſtate of ſiege, in order to prevent the progreſs of this horrid inſurrection, and to protect the peaceable inhabitants againſt violence and oppreſſion.
Alſo invite all good citizens to remain in their houſes after the tattoo has been beaten, at leaſt not to go without a lanthron.'

ALBANY, January 17,

We tranſlate the following from a French paper entitled Le Clairvoyant, of the firſt Vendemaire, (Sept. .)

"It appears moſt probable that the precipitation of the United States will render uſeleſs the amicable diſpoſitions of the French republic towards that country, and that becauſe they will not underſtand us, or rather becauſe they refuſe to liſten to us. At leaſt this is the opinion we form from reading the following article, which we tranſcribe from the Redacteur of this day.

'Anſwer to the following queſtions inſerted in ſome of the newſpapers."

Has France an Army which she can send to invade the United States? Or has she a Navy which she can send there?

"The Americans, reſolving upon war with the French republic, annul, in conſequence, the treaty of 1778. They again become, with reſpect to France, what they were before that period, an Engliſh colony. The republic muſt, then, conſider Americans as Engliſh; and, as ſuch, their flag merits no reſpect; they become enemies; the right ought to be given to all French privateers to capture their veſſels, and their future fate ought to be bound to that of Great-Britain, in the iſſue of the preſent war.

'Suppoſe that England, from a power of the firſt order, ſhould become, what ſhe ought to be, a power of the ſecond rank, will not the French republic, in maintaining the liberty of the ſea, have the power to ſay to Americans, "Your veſſels may be employed in coaſting from one federal port to another; but the American flag cannot be permitted to fly on the European ſeas; you ſhall receive from European nations the merchandize of which you ſtand in need. When a nation is guilcy of ingratitude, it merits no conſideration; and we ought the leſs to count on your repenting, ſince your fathers, born pirates, being originally Engliſh, have transferred to you their ſpirit of injuſtice."

"I know not what the citizens of the United States hope, even if they have the greateſt ſucceſs; but this cannot be conteſted, that if the Engliſh, their inſtigators, are unable to ſuccour them, the French republic will have it in her power to deprive them of the rights which her generoſity, her blood, and her gold gave them, and which have ſerved only to prove to what extent their ingratitude could be carried."

[Claypoole.]

From an Engliſh paper.

A verboſe, ambiguous, and elaborately confuſed apology has been publiſhed by the French Miniſter, Talleyrand Perigord, which ſeems to fix the charge of corruption more ſtrongly on himſelf and his maſters, than even the teſtimony of the American Miniſters. It was eaſy to conjecture, that the only ſubterfuge of which he could avail himſelf was a diſavowal of his anonymous agents. Yet even this, he has not directly, plainly, and poſitively done. In the whole courſe of his involved and tedious defence, and with the impunity of which he was aſſured for every falſhood he could utter, he had not once ventured in plain unequivocal language, to deny that thoſe perſons who made corrupt propoſals to the American Miniſters, were his confidential agents. In the midſt of all his whining, bullying, and ſnuffling, there is not one ſimple downright denial of guilt. The affair of the Dutch Inſcriptions is avowed. All his compliments have produced nothing from Mr. Gerry, but a declaration that none of the Agents in the infamous tranſaction were employed in the Foreign Office. Mr. Talleyrand ſeems to be no ſuch novice in corruption as to employ his avowed and immediate dependants in ſuch a buſineſs. Some men may believe, and no man dare contradict his tale at Paris, but no man of common ſenſe and common honeſty, who is without the reach of his power, can peruſe his apology without any other impreſſion than that it is a clumſy defence, and an implied confeſſion of the meaneſt and moſt atrocious guilt.

AN ACT,

Limiting the time within which claims againſt the United States, for credits on the books of the Treaſury, may be preſented for allowance

BE it enacted by the Senate and Houſe of Repreſentatives of the United States of America, in Congreſs aſſembled, That all credits on the books of the Treaſury of the United States, for tranſactions during the late war, which, according to the courſe of the Treaſury have hitherto been diſcharged by iſſuing certificates of regiſtered debt, ſhall be forever barred and precluded from ſettlement or allowance, unleſs claimed by the proper creditors, or their legal repreſentatives, on or before the firſt day of March, in the year one thouſand ſeven hundred and ninety nine. December 13. w t1ſt Mar.

MY DEAR SIR,

IT is our duty to expoſe the place hunting Jacobins; indeed liſts ought to be furniſhed with their names and exploits, and publiſhed throughout the United States. The incloſed letter, if you think proper to publiſh it, will give a ſpecimen of the principles of thoſe conſpirators; it was written a ſhort time previous (as you will perceive by the date) to our laſt general election, to Mr. Arndt, who attended a meeting of his federal friends, for the purpoſe of fixing a ticket of four perſons to be run as Repreſentatives in the State Legiſlature, for the county of Northampton. Mr. Coolbach ran in both tickets, conſequently ſucceeded; his letter is the beſt expoſitor of his principles, ſince he has been in ſeſſion; we perceive him and his infamous colleagues diſſenting from an addreſs to the Preſident, and it is as true, that they left the city for fear of accompanying its preſentation:—What hang-dogs theſe are to repreſent ſo opulent a State as Pennſylvania. The public will entertain no great opinion of the county, who ſend five members to repreſent them, when they are told that Mr. Coolbach is the beſt informed man of the five, his letter will demonſtrate the depth of their erudition; when the type is ſet, let it be turned up ſide down, it is characteriſtic of the author; pleaſe to give it ſpelling and all, with ſuch remarks as you may have time to beſtow upon the caitiff; I am laughing at the ideas he had of two or three words which he had inſerted. Though they are well enough applied, he knew no more of their etymology than he does of honor or gratitude—He mentions the word an lantick, I apprehend he conceived it to be an elderly lady in the neighborhood of Labradore in the employ of the Dutch, perhaps drying cod fiſh. The word ſequel, he imagined ſickle with which he purpoſed to reap laurels in the Legiſlature. I envy him his happineſs when he inſerted the word tanta mount; he viewed it analogous to getting a ſtraddle of his ox.

DEAR SIR

Smithfield
Sunday Evening September 16th 1798

Lord St Vincent lately captured a veſſel from South America, which, amongſt other articles of great value, contained a ſtatue of the king of Spain in gold, deſigned as a preſent to his majeſty. The gallant tar, with a ſpirit worthy of himſelf, and honorable to his country, forwarded the ſtatue to Cadiz; and in a manner which may greatly enhance the value of the gift, ſolicited his majeſty's acceptance of it.

OF THE

UNITED IRISHMEN.

By MATTHEW DITTO, Eſquire,

MOTTO.

"Take all the three Kingdoms and put both togedder,
"No Nation beſide can produce you de Broderon't
"Ireland's de fader, Och! and Ireland's de Moder cn't"

SPECIMEN OF THE STYLE.

Deteſted authors of the Gag Bill!—when ye dare to watch over and guard the country which gave you birth;—Whenever ye dare diſcharge a ſacred truſt according to the dictates of your conſciences;—bleſs yourſelves that Lucifer did not ſucceed in overthrowing the throne of Omnipotence;—proſtrate yourſelves before that throne which you fooliſhly adore, but which we deſpiſe, and give your thanks that the hopes of the Directory are blaſted; that the Conqueror of Italy is a Mummy;—that the Magician Nelſon has transformed Brueys into a Rocket; that Napper is perhaps Napperleſs;—that the windpipe of Tone is out of Tune;—that my foot is like Tallyrand's foot, unable to overtake you;—that have not three heads, like Cerberus and five more like the Directory, to enable me to ſwallow eight of you at a gulph, and that my hands, cannot, like the hands of Briareus wield an hundred Poinards at a time——For I ſwear, by all my hopes of being twice an United Iriſhman, inſtead of once only, had I thoſe heads, with mouths and teeth, and thoſe hands with Daggers in them—Oh Hell—What Pride! What pleaſure ſhould I feel in eating the tender fleſh of your children,—drinking the blood of your wives,—plunging my daggers in your hearts,—And then—had I the hundred eyes of Argus—Oh!—how they would all gliſten with rapture to behold your dying agonies.——But alas!—my hand is too weak to draw a ſword, my poor foot is like Talleyrand's, and it cannot overtake you—my eyes are dim with tears for the fate of Napper and of Tone—and I have but one foul mouth—but with that I can mutter curſes at you. End of the ſpecimen.

N. B. once—To prevent any ſuſpicion that the work at large falls off from the ſublimity of the ſpecimen, the Editor thinks it neceſſary to ſtate that an eminent doctor lately rendered conſpicuous for his valor, another eminent doctor who is his friend and an United Iriſhman, not once only, but always, and another eminent doctor, lately returned from an expedition to cure Talleyrand's cloven chump, approve of the whole, and ſay it is ſublime.

N. B. twice—Sold Dog cheap; ſtitched up with the Age of Reaſon and Carey's Triſles in Proſe.—Thoſe who pay for a dozen ſhall have an hundred gratis.

[I publiſh the above advertiſement out of charity, but I really fear Porcupine will have to diſcharge the author from being his pudding maker; for as he is too weak to ſtiletto he may perhaps poiſon him. However, in ſuch a caſe, if he is accuſtomed to give ſervants certificates, he might recommend him to Citizen Genevau, Citizen Guillotine, or Citizen Halter: He is fit to dreſs a Pudding for the former, or to furniſh a Calf's head to either of the latter.]

EXTRACT

From the JOURNALS of the ASSEMBLY of VIRGINIA,

FRIDAY, January 4, 1799.

"The Houſe, according to the order of the day, reſolved itſelf into a committee of the whole houſe, on the ſtate of the Commonwealth, and after ſome time ſpent therein, Mr. Speaker reſumed the chair, and Mr. Breckenridge reported, that the committee of the whole houſe had according to order had the ſame under their conſideration the ſtate of the Commonwealth, and had come to ſeveral reſolutions thereupon, which he read in his place, and then delivered in at the clerk's table, where the ſame were again read, and are as follows:

Reſolved, That the General Aſſembly of Virginia, will co-operate with the authorities of the United States, in maintaining the independence, union, and conſtitution thereof, againſt the hoſtilities or intrigues of all foreign powers whatſoever; and that, although differences of opinion do exiſt, in relation to internal and domeſtic meaſures; yet a charge that there is a party in this Commonwealth, under the influence of any foreign power, is unfounded and calumnious.

Reſolved, That the General Aſſembly do, and will always behold with indignation, depradations on our commerce; inſults on our citizens; impreſſments of our ſeamen; or any other injuries committed on the people or government of the United States, by foreign nations.

Reſolved nevertheleſs, That our ſecurity from invaſion, and the force of our militia, render a ſtanding army unneceſſary; that the policy of the United States, forbids a war of aggreſſion: that our whole reliance ought to be on ourſelves, and therefore, that while we will repel invaſion at every hazard, we ſhall deplore and deprecate the evils of war for any other cauſe.

Reſolved, That a copy of the foregoing reſolutions be ſent to each of the Senators, and Repreſentatives of this ſtate in congreſs.

The ſaid reſolution being read a ſecond time, a motion was made, and the queſtion being put to amend the ſame by ſtriking out from the word "Reſolved," in the firſt line, and inſerting in lieu thereof the following words:

Reſolved, That the Preſident of the United States, in ſending to the French republic three envoys extraordinary, veſted with the moſt ample powers, and inſtructed to uſe every effort for conciliation, conſiſtent with national honor and independence, manifeſted a ſincere diſpoſition to preſerve to our country the bleſſings of peace.

That the humiliating treatment and final rejection of theſe envoys, by the French republic, was a groſs infraction of the laws and uſages of nations, and a marked indignity to the government and people of theſe ſtates.

That the requiſition of a loan of money, as the preliminaty to negociation, was a peculiar aggravation of inſult, and deciſive proof of hoſtility of ſentiment, and that a compliance with ſuch a requiſition would have been a puſillanimous ſurrender of our national independence.

That the decree of the French councils, ſubjecting to capture and condemnation, neutral veſſels, laden in whole or in part with the productions or manufactures of Great-Britain, is an infringement of the rights of neutral nations, and tends in a particular manner to wound the intereſt and happineſs of theſe ſtates. Profeſſions of amity from a nation which preſerves ſuch a law in full operation, are fallacious and inſulting.

That whatever our ſentiments may be, as to the propriety of particular acts of our own government, our character is miſtaken by thoſe nations who ſuppoſe that we will not be united in reſenting the inſidious machinations, and repelling the open hoſtilities of any foreign government.

That we will at the hazard of our fortunes and lives, remain what we are, a free united, and independent people: That we ſhall at all times, vindicate our national honor and rights againſt any country which may invade them; and that we will cheerfully co-operate in ſuch conſtitutional meaſures of defence, as may be deemed neceſſary by the councils of the Union.

It paſſed in the negative, ayes 68, noes 97.

On a motion made by Mr. George K. Taylor, ſeconded by Mr. Breckenridge—Ordered, That the names of the ayes and noes on the foregoing queſtion be inſerted in the journal.

And then the queſtion being put, that the Houſe do agree with the committee of the whole Houſe in the reſolutions as reported.

It paſſed in the affirmative, ayes 103, noes 58.

On a motion made by Mr. Bolling, ſeconded by Mr. Nicolas—Ordered, That the names of the ayes and noes on the foregoing queſtion be inſerted in the journal.

The act for the puniſhment of certain crimes therein ſpecified, this day, paſſed in the Senate, yeas 18—nays 2—The nays were Meſſrs. Bloodworth and Langdon.

In our Gazette of yeſterday evening we inſerted a letter from the Secretary of State to the Preſident of the United States, correcting two errors, which had crept into the report of the former, of the 18th inſtant. We introduced this letter by remarking that it was yesterday communicated to Congress by the President. In this, we have ſince learnt, we were miſtaken; as the letter, although drafted, was never ſent to the Preſident, nor by him communicated. We were led into the miſtake by the draft of the letter being left with us as a memorandum, whereby to correct the copy of the report, which was then in our preſs; but we ſuppoſed it had been left to be publiſhed in our Gazette as an official document.

WHEREAS,

BY an Act of Congress passedon the sixteenth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety eight, the President of the United States is authorised to borrow on behalf of the United States from the Bank of the United States, or from any other body or bodies politic or corporate, or from any person or persons, and upon such terms and conditions as he shall judge most advantageous for the United States, a sum not exceeding five millions of dollars, so however, that no contract or engagement be made which shall preclude the United States from reimbursing any sum or sums borrowed at any time after the expiration of fifteen years from the date of such loan. And whereas, it is declared by the said Act, that so much as may be necessary of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretoforecharged upon them by law, shall be pledged and appropriated for paying the interest, and also for paying and discharging the principal sum or sums of all the monies which may be borrowed, according to the term or terms which may be fixed, pursuant to the authority aforesaid—And whereas by the said Act, the faith of the United States is pledged to establish sufficient permanent Revenues for making up any deficiency that may hereafter appear in the provisions before-mentioned for paying the interest and principal sums, or either of them, of any monies which may be borrowed pursuant to the said Act. And whereas the President of the United States did by an Act or Commission under his hand dated the ninth day of January in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine, authorise and empower, the Secretary of the Treasury, to borrow on behalf of the United States, any sum not exceeding in the whole, five millions of dollars and to make such contract or contracts as should be necessary, and for the interest of the United States, in pursuance of the Act of Congress above recited.

Now therefore, the undersigned, Secretary of the Treasury, in pursuance of the Act of Congress, and the authority from the President of the United States, above mentioned, doth hereby on behalf of the United States of America, contract and engage in manner following, to wit.

1st. A book for receiving subscriptions to a Loan of five millions of dollars for the use of the United States shall be opened in the city of Philadelphia, at the Bank of the United States on Thursday the twenty eighth day of February ensuing, which book shall continue open for the purpose of receiving subscriptions, until the whole of the said five millions of dollars shall be subscribed. If more than five millions of dollars shall be subscribed on the first day of opening the said loan, the surplus shall be deducted in proportion to the sums subscribed by individuals, exceeding four thousand dollars.

2d. For every hundred dollars which may be subscribed there shall be forthwith deposited and paid the sum of twelve dollars and fifty cents, and like payments of twelve dollars and fifty cents, shall be made within the first ten days of the months of April, May, June, July, August September and October ensuing. The Secretary of the Treasury however reserves the right of reducing the number of instalments by special agreements, with the individuals who may become subscribers.

3d. On the failure of payment of any instalment of the sums subscribed according to the tenor of the second article, the next preceeding instalment of twelve dollars and fifty cents, which shall have been paid, for every hundred dollars subscribed shall be forfeited to the United States.

4th. The sums subscribed shall and may be paid to the credit of the United States, at the Bank of the United States, or at the offices of discount and deposit of the said Bank at Boston, New-York, Baltimore, or Charleston, or at either of the Banks of Salem, in Massachusetts, Newport and Providence in Rhode-Island, Hartford in Connecticut, Albany in New-York, or Alexandria in Virginia, for which payments, the receipts of the Cashiers of the Offices of Discount and Deposit and of the Banks aforesaid shall be received at the Bank of the United States as equivalent to money; but no payment of a subsequent instalment shall be received at any other place than that where the first instalment was paid, except at the Bank of the United States; in case any deposits shall be made at the offices of Discount or Deposit, or at either of the Banks aforesaid, which shall not be applied to the payment of the first instalment of subscriptions to the Loan aforesaid, the said deposits shall be forthwith refunded by directions from the Treasury.

5th. For the sums or number of shares of one hundred dollars, which may be subscribed, certificates shall be given by the Cashier of the Bank of the United States, which shall be assignable by indorsement, and delivery of the parties in whose favour the said certificates may be issued, until the completion of the payments required by the tenor of the second article preceeding.

6th. The sums subscribed and paid in pursuance of the tenor of the second article preceeding, shall after the said payments have been compleated, constitute a funded capital stock divisible into shares of one hundred dollars each, which capital stock shall bear interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum from the times fixed for the payment of the respective instalments payable quarter yearly at the Treasury of the United States, or at the Loan Offices where the same may stand credited, until the last day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eight.

7th. After the last day of December in the said year one thousand eight hundred and eight, and after reasonable notice to the creditors, which shall be given by an advertisement in some public newspaper, printed at the seat of the government of the United States, the said capital stock shall be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States by the reimbursement of the whole sum or sums borrowed, and which may constitute the said capital stock either at the treasury of the United States or at the loan offices where the same may stand credited.

8th. The credits for the said capital stock shall and may be separately certified in sums either for one hundred, four hundred, one thousand, four thousand or ten thousand dollars, and the credits so certified shall be transferable by the creditors, or their attornies, at the Treasury and Loan Offices respectively, in pursuance of the rules which have been, or which may be established relative to the transfer of the funded stock of the United States,

9th. A sufficient sum of the surplus of the duties on Imports and Tonnage beyond the permanent appropriations heretofore charged upon them by law, together with the faith of the United States are hereby pledged for the fulfillment of this contract, in pursuance of, and according to the terms and conditions of the act of Congress herein before recited.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Treasury of the United States at Philadelphia, this twelfth day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine.

IT is perhaps futile to expect to work conviction in the minds of so inveterate and vicious a class of men, as the Democrats of America, by any arguments however forcible, or any display of truth, however irresistible: These writings are, however, calculated to produce a more important and useful effect, by placing the subject in its true light before honest men, who are uninformed, or have been misinformed as to the nature and objects of those bills.
